PORT PIPE
CASK MATURED

This unique whisky has been fully matured in first-fill ruby port pipes, sourced from a vineyard in the Douro valley region of northern Portugal – one of the oldest protected wine regions in the world. We were lucky enough to source these extraordinary casks back in 2016 and they have done an amazing job of producing a beautiful sweet and rounded whisky with a truly outstanding depth of flavour. There are just 3,900 bottles in total.

TASTING NOTES

ON THE NOSE

Warm ruby port aromas drift alongside a delicate whisper of sea salt. Dried fruits slowly emerge – raisins, dark cherries and sultanas, in a deeply vinous embrace that hints at the extraordinary casks at work.

ON THE PALATE

Luscious caramel and smooth vanilla arrive first, underpinned by beautiful wine-soaked flavours. Darker notes follow, gentle oak smoke and the rich sweetness of dates and figs with a supple, full-bodied texture and outstanding depth of flavour.

FINISH

Long and warming. Caramel and dried fruits linger with quiet confidence, while those signature ruby port notes weave through to the very end.

70cl, 46% ABV

NON CHILL FILTERED / NATURAL COLOUR

Wolfburn is the most northerly distillery on the Scottish mainland. Originally founded in 1821, all of Wolfburn's single malt whiskies are made the traditional way: without haste, by hand, and with a huge emphasis on quality. The results are superb, and Wolfburn's special releases are consistent winners of international spirits competitions.

Wolfburn's smooth and easy-drinking character stems from the way it is made. Long fermentation is followed by slow and gentle distillation to make a pure, smooth spirit. Maturation takes place in purpose-built warehouses just a short distance from the sea.
